

A TORNADO IN MINNESOTA

PEOPLE FLEE TERROR-STRIKEN T

THEIR CYCLONE CELLARS.
The City of Crookston Struck by the Storm—
One Hotel Demolished and Eight Persons Injured—Two Other Hotels Damaged.

CROOKSTON, Minn., June 12.—The storm breeding aultriness of yesterday was remarked upon by people here, but, up to midnight there was nothing to forestall the fearful storm or the wind and rain which swept over the city, injuring several persons and doing great damage to property for miles. At that hour a cloud formation was observed which awakened apprehensions on the part of those who had previously seen similar phenomena. In an incredibly short time the entire heavens were compassed by the dark and swiftly moving presagers of destruction and with them came a high wind, by far the most severe ever experienced here. Thunder and lightning added to the terror of the timorous

When the storm struck the city the German people were at Main and Third streets, went over like a bomb, at the house of whom eight persons were injured. As follows: Joseph Netzer, a well-known woman, None of these was dangerous, only hurt. Charles Netzer, the proprietor, was severely injured. He received injuries which might possibly result in death. The two adjacent meat a total loss. It was a new building, built on a lot at Broadway and Fifth streets. The building was not yet completed. It fell away to the right. The two adjacent buildings are a mass of debris. The Croston House was peculiarly damaged, the back part was not injured.

The loss in the city can hardly be less than $10,000 to $15,000. Signs, fences and windows are in a dilapidated condition. The city hose tower, 100 feet high, with fire alarm, and on which was the signal service, was tipped over and nearly all down. The electric light poles are in a dilapidated condition. Trees, signs and outbuildings suffered the most. Signs, trees, outbuildings and the city hose tower were damaged.

Near Hunter, Ark., the storm blew a farm house to pieces, containing eight persons. One man was killed outright and the others received severe injuries. Three of them were children. At Valley City, Ark., a heavy dark mass of clouds gathered in the northwest, with a brisk, cool wind. Thunder and lightning followed, and the air was full of flying timber and dust.

the cellars. One man was found hanging to a telegraph pole unhurt. A counter was blown 800 feet and landed beside him. Paul Parado's windmill, 100 feet high, was blown down. The wind blew about twenty minutes, and the rain lasted forty-five minutes, coming down in spouts.

NO LONGER A RESIDENT OF BUFFALO
The President Relinquishes His Residence in the City by the Lake.

BUFFALO, June 12.—The question of President Cleveland's legal place of residence having been raised, an investigation was made. Ho-part Weed, proprietor of the Weed block, in which were located the elegant bachelor quarters of Mr. Cleveland, said to-day that the President had relinquished his rooms there over six months ago. That was just before Mrs. Folsom and her daughter sailed for Europe, and it is believed that the formal engagement occurred at that time. This would not necessarily interfere with Mr. Cleveland's future residence here, but Mr. Wilson Shannon Bissell has notified the city tax spreaders that Mr. Cleveland has relinquished his residence here,

It was the same amount on which he was taxed last year. Mr. Cleveland still owns the lot on Butler street, which was assessed at $3,000. It is reported that a sale is being negotiated, and it is not expected by his friends that he will ever return to Buffalo to live. An

Mr. Cleveland will find as an ex-President that he will be a larger man in New York, Washington, or Albany than he would be in Buffalo. Such prestige would help him in the practice of his profession."

There is less to talk here of Mr. Bissell for secretary of the Treasury, and it comes from a source which predicted Mr. Manning's resignation three days before it was made. In certain circles here there is very little doubt about the appointment.

is not so to Omaha to-day. Mrs. Oscar Folom has been visiting Mrs. Eckley, her cousin, the last few days, and called on many of her friends. Mrs. Folom is horrified at some of the pictures printed of her, in which she is represented as wearing short hair.

IS IT MISS FEILD'S FATHER?

He Wants the Property of the New York Teacher who Fell Dead in El Paso

Thomas W. Feild, who says he is the father of Miss Isabella Feild, formerly a teacher in the Fourteenth Street Public School, at this city, arrived in Jersey City from California a few days ago, and he is now staying with a friend in Union Hill. Miss Feild retired from teaching school several years ago. She and property valued at $52,000, and she went on a trip around the world. As she led to her friends, to improve her mind. A November last, while she was on a trip through the Southwest she died of apoplexy at a hotel in El Paso, Texas. It was not known what she had any relatives living. Her mother died when she was a child. Her father disappeared after her mother's death, and she never saw him afterward. She supposed him dead.

After her death a will was discovered, in which she gave almost all her property to the Woman's Missionary Society of this city. The Policeman Carney Charged with Assault.

Policeman James F. Carney of Capt. Berg-y's command was at the Tomba Police Court yesterday to answer a charge of assault preferred by Mrs.
Frederick Brown, a young married woman of 20 Rector street, who appeared in the court room carrying her inst. Mrs. Brown said that on Thursday last she went to a neighboring grocery store to buy milk. On her return she met Policeman Carney on the stairway coming from her apartments, which are on the fourth floor, was in citizens' dress, and said he had been in the room of Mrs. Brown's son, and asked the policeman why he wanted her brother and son. She said it was only some of his devilry he has been engaged in. Thereupon Mrs. Brown says Carney caught hold of her dress at the neck, twist it so as to choke her, and threw her off the stairway, spilling the milk over her. She fell on a outcry, and the neighbors came to her aid.

The policeman's story was that Mrs. Brown and other guests of the house followed him to the stairway after a fruitless search for Mrs. Brown's brother, and had scolded him. He admitted that he might have hit Mrs. Brown, but if he had it was only in self-defense. He was paired with Morley to procure his witnesses.

His Bondsman Found Him in the Street.

Lyman Rosebush, a constituent of Ben Campbell, was appointed Deputy United States Marshal January by Gen. McMahon. He was in office only a day when he was named by Rosebush.

Highwaymen Caught at Work.
Detective O'Hara of the Church street police took three thieves following a sailor man down West street toward the Factory early yesterday morning and owed the thieves. At Battery Park, near Pier 13, they tackled the man and knocked him down. O'Hara jumped in with his club, managed to hit all the thieves except one, John Foley, who had the sailorman's watch. The sailor, Charles Westerson, had been knocked senseless. He was taken to Chambers Street Hospital.

Mrs. Camden C. Dike's Diamonds Stolen.

Mrs. Camden C. Dike, of 124 Columbia street, Brooklyn, with her daughters and a niece, went last week to West Point to witness the Academy exercises.

A Boy Found Drowned.
A boy about 7 years old was found drowned in the narrows yesterday near Fort Hamilton. He had dark hair and was dressed in a gray Guernsey jacket, trousers, and gaiter shoes. He had been in the water only a few days.
